the pleasantest features of the day, as it makes a happy introduction to the afternoon lecture and serves to fill in the time while the audience are getting seated. As has been previously announced Jaha DeWitt Miller lectured on "The Uses of Ugliness." He introduces his lecture by saying that he is a living illustration of the uses of ugliness. His lecture is intensely amusing and keeps the audience hilarious from the beginning to the end. He will preach tomorrow night and lecture again on Monday on "Love, Courtship and Marriage," a subject which he pretends to be well acquainted with, as he has never had any personal experience Miss Maggie Powell of Danville, Va., who has been visiting Miss Rueckert, 1435 Corcoran street, left last night for her home.
